To whom it may concern,

Mr Daniel Skowroński, trainer and coach from Valkir Academy, training and consulting provider, performed a course on "Business models generation with innovative development of products and services" between 14 and 15 of April, 2016 (14h total).

Course was organized in modules of theory and practice with workshops.

Topics discussed during the training were related to new but structured approach of designing business models, customer segments and prototypes of innovative products and services.

Mr Daniel Skowroński proved to be a highly competent trainer with excellent interpersonal skills. His engagement into the training and perfect class management during his workshops make him certainly worth recommending.
